

Rhea Zakich, Associate member of ACT, is an author, speaker, leader of retreats and workshops, as well as a well-known TV and radio guest. She is also the creator of the world's most popular communication game, the Ungame, which has sold over 2 million worldwide.

The Ungame has been acclaimed by psychologists, teachers and ministers, as well as families and organizations. More than 10 million lives have been touched by the effective Ungame, which enables people of all ages to share ideas, feelings and beliefs. It creates a win-win situation for all the players.

A recipient of many community service awards, she has been featured in Reader's Digest, Guideposts, Redbook, People, US, Today's Christian Women and Psychology for Living. Her dramatic story of losing her ability to speak, the eventual recovery and spiritual journey that ensued is recounted in her book Everyone Wins (the story behind the Ungame). In her second book, The Healing Power of HeartTalk, Rhea shares her special insights on communication.

Stories about Rhea's work have been published in major newspapers including the Los Angeles Times, the Washington Post, the San Francisco Tribune and the Boston Globe.

Rhea is an active Lay Leader in the Crystal Cathedral in Garden Grove California where she is the ongoing Bible Study Teacher for "WOW, (Women of the Word)," and Spiritual Life Chairperson for "Homebuilders" a large Adult Sunday School class. Her enthusiastic presentations encourage, enlighten, entertain and touch the hearts of her audiences, leaving a lasting impression.

Her total commitment to serve Jesus Christ makes her an inspiring and effective speaker and leader. Her life is a "thrilling account of a remarkable woman and a miracle working God". The Associate members of ACT feel blessed to have her as a member. To God be the Glory for all her work! Thank You Rhea!
